Street Olympics marks 25th year of serving community

omeone at the Harris County Precinct One Street Olympics kickoff news conference became impatient, so they shouted the words they wanted so badly to hear: "Let the games begin!"

It wasn't time just yet. That's because those words are normally reserved for Harris County Precinct One Commissioner El Franco Lee, who has made them as popular in the Street Olympics' circles as the "Let's get ready to rumble" catchphrase made famous by ring announcer Michael Buffer.

Indeed, there was a great deal of anticipation to get the games started because this year marks the 25th anniversary of the Street

"Some of your parents probably were Street Olympics' participants or Street Olympics' workers as they were molding their high school or college careers."

Lee created the nonprofit Street Olympics in 1986 to implement programs that provide training, support and resources that lead to healthy and productive lives for Houston-area youth.

It started with about 200 children competing in the Summer Games. Now the Summer Games involves thousands of children competing at participating agencies, including Houston Parks and Recreation Department community centers, Boys & Girls Clubs'

Comments on past and future activities

Practice Water Safety

Once again, it's that time of the year when practically everyone tries to beat the heat by taking a summer swim. Again, it's my time to issue a warning to be extremely careful in and around the water – be it a pool, a lake or a beach. Tragically, we have already had drownings in the Houston area so far this year. So please heed all warning signs of dangerous undercurrents and deep drop-offs in the natural waterways. Watch your children very closely around water and wear life vests when boating. Those who can't swim should participate in a Learn-to-Swim program such as the one at the Precinct One Harris County Aquatics Program. Call HCAP at 713-748-7333. Also, the City of Houston, in partnership with the American Red Cross, is providing swimming classes at various area pools. For information, call 713-313-1691.

Harris County Toll Road Authority Projects

Work is under way to plant about 42,000 trees along the Sam Houston Tollway Northeast corridor to beautify the recently opened road and improve the quality of storm-water runoff. The trees are being planted by the Harris County Toll Road Authority along the strip of land between the service road and the toll lanes, which opened on Feb. 26. The opening of this 13-mile segment marks the completion of the Sam Houston Tollway/Beltway 8 project.

More than a dozen varieties of trees – including loblolly pine, Shumard oak, cedar elm, and Mexican sycamore – are being planted along with about 16,000 shrubs and grasses. Also, wildflowers will be planted on 74 acres. The landscaping effort is expected to be complete by April 2012.

Harris County Flood Control District Projects

- Remember hurricane season begins June 1 and ends Nov. 30 each year. Now is the time to develop a family disaster preparedness plan and practice it with all family members. There are a number of resources that provide hurricane preparation lists, including the National Hurricane Center's website at www.nhc.noaa.gov. If you plan to ride out a storm, remember to get the necessary supplies in advance such as gasoline for your vehicle, food, water, flashlights, batteries and a battery-operated radio. For those who prefer evacuation, please plan your routes and leave early to avoid traffic jams.
- The Harris County Flood Control District has launched a new Flood Warning System website at www.harriscountyfws.org. The system draws information from a network of 133 gages that measure rainfall data and water levels in bayous and major streams throughout Harris County on an around-the-clock basis. Residents can monitor bayou and stream levels near their homes, jobs and daily-commute routes by inputting an address that will zoom the map to the nearest gage station. The Flood Control District is urging the public to utilize the website and the information it provides to prepare and take appropriate precautions during heavy rain and flooding.
- Excavation work will begin soon on the second phase of construction of the Homestead Stormwater Detention Basin just north of Loop 610 between Homestead Road and Kirkpatrick. This basin is one component of the recommended Hunting Bayou Federal Flood Damage Reduction Project. Also, preliminary engineering reports are under way on land acquired by the District for future Stormwater Detention Basin projects in the Precinct that include a 130-acre site near Dixie Farm Road and Beamer Road, a 97-acre site near U.S. 59 and Langley Street, and a 112-acre site near Lauder Road west of JFK Boulevard. These sites will help reduce the risk of over-bank, channel flooding during major storm events in three of the Precinct's major watersheds.

In 1992, Harris County Precinct One Commissioner El Franco Lee created HCAP - one of the four components of the Harris County Precinct One Street Olympics - to teach youth discipline, leadership and teamwork skills through the sport of swimming.

Creative writing classes help seniors put their thoughts on paper

When Lula Jones initially searched for a senior citizens' activity at Finnigan Community Center, she sidestepped line dancing because she says she has "two left feet." So, she decided to do something with her hands - and her mind - by taking the creative writing class.

"In line dancing, you got to get it," she said. "But when you write, it's something you can just sit down and just think about."

The writing classes at Finnigan as well as Lincoln Community Center enabled Jones and seven other students to take part in reading their selected works in the Ensemble Theater foyer on May 25. The writing workshops are conducted by instructors from the nonprofit Inprint, whose mission is to inspire readers and writers in Houston.

"I don't think I have the right to feel proud, but I do feel proud," Nicole Zaza, the Inprint instructor at Finnigan, said after the celebratory reading. "I admire them."

She wasn't alone. Expressions of admiration were on the faces "Why I Write. Alias, Who Cares" -

A 527-square-foot, modular restroom and a wastewater holding tank have been installed at Dow One Park. Precinct One workers also installed sidewalks and a parking lot.

Precinct One construction updates

- Left-turn lanes in each direction and drainage improvements will be added to Gulf Bank at Sweetwater Lane. The . work is expected to start later this year.
- A .12-mile section of C.E. King Parkway at U.S. 90A will be converted from two to four lanes to complete the boulevard section across the Union Pacific Railroad tracks. Five years ago, C.E. King was widened from Tidwell to U.S. 90A, but the work had to stop about 600 feet before U.S. 90A because there was no agreement with Union Pacific to cross the tracks. An agreement now has
- been obtained, allowing the latest project to start around September.
- Workers have completed construction on a .70-mile section of Imperial Valley from Rankin to Harvest Time Lane. The work involved converting from a two- to a four-lane, divided, concrete road with a grass median.
- Construction has started on a right-turn lane on Black Hawk northbound at Beltway 8. The project is expected to be completed in August. Last year, a left-turn lane was added at that intersection.

Construction crews work on a bridge that will span a Harris County Flood Control District ditch on Hughes Road. The .6-mile improvements also involve converting Hughes into a four-lane, divided concrete roadway from Sageblossom to the Pearland city limits.

"I think it's great that the commissioner had this vision 25 years ago, and has kept it going with the sponsors and help of volunteers," said Doug Earl, the parks department Deputy Director of Recreation and Wellness. "It's a great event."

Lee's Street Olympics' vision expanded over the years to now include four core components:

- The Summer Games include 3on-3 Basketball, and Final Event and Bright Futures Fair, a collection of booths manned by businesses and agencies that focus on health, nutrition, safety and careers.
- The Discovery Camp/Traveling Naturalist Program enables children to learn about nature and the environment.
